The Walla Walla and Columbia River Railroad Company are at work on their mill and boom at Wallula, so as to be ready to get out their ties and stringers as soon as their logs can be driven down the Yakima river, which, however, cannot be done until the water rises in that stream to a considerable extent Present appearances indicate that the company will not be able to lay the track before next spring

Portland, Sept 6 1

Time for Work

On the 1st of November the Presidential election will be held There is less than two months in which to organize and prosecute the campaign From the other States intelligence comes that the work is already pushing vigorously forward Grant and Wilson clubs have been formed in Portland and Salem but we have not heard of their formation elsewhere in the State There should be clubs in every county and precinct It is true there is no danger of Oregon being carried by the Greeleyites but that is no reason why we should lie still when by a good, strong, hearty push we could greatly increase the Republican majority What with the prestige of the recent victories at the east and those that are to come before the Presidential election, the increasing disgust of the Democracy at the Greeley surrender and the demoralization in the ranks of the opposition occasioned by the Louisville movement, the Republican party in Oregon ought not to be satisfied with less than 2 000 majority for Grant and Wilson We can secure that gain if we but set to work in good earnest for it Let it not be said that Oregon is the only State that fails to have increased Republican majority, when all the circumstances afford us so grand an opportunity Republicans, to the front!

Some Misstatements Corrected

The official conduct of a Senator of the United States is always a legitimate subject of comment, and it is to be expected that when he is brought forward as an aspirant for re election those who prefer another man will make the most of all his sins, both of omission and commission But it is not expected that in order to establish a basis for unfriendly criticism, a public journalist, especially one inside his own party, will state as facts that which is well known to most persons of intelligence to be wholly without foundation in truth

We are led to this reflection by the course pursued by the Statesman in regard to Senator Corbett Passing over the ill natured thrusts at Mr Corbett which compose the staple of nearly all the articles published in the Statesman for the past few days we desire to attract attention to some misstatements of fact which appear in reference to Corbett s course in the Senate, upon questions relating to our railway system

First—The Statesman says that Mr Corbett opposed an extension of time by Congress, for the Oregon Central Railway Company to comply with the land grant act under which it was building its road The facts in the case are There were two companies operating under the name of the Oregon Central Railroad Company, one on the east side and the other on the west side of the Willamette river That on the west side was the older company and had been designated as the company to receive the land grant, before the other was in existence The east side company was organized, and that series of transactions will be remembered as the "A J Cook & Co swindle"—a name given to it, we believe, by T B Cornelius—ended in the east side company getting up a claim to the land grant. This claim was monstrously and baldly indefensible upon any principle of law or honesty and was so pronounced by every one who took pains to investigate it, not even excepting many of those who would have been indirectly benefited by its success Under these circumstances Mr Mitchell proceeded to Washington as the attorney of the A J Cook & Co concern, and asked the passage of an act extending the time for that concern to complete the road Mr Corbett opposed it as an attempt to take away the vested rights of the old west side company and vest them in the other company unjustly, thus perpetrating a wrong upon those who had invested their money in the west side organization

Second—The next charge of the Statesman is that Mr Corbett acted against the railroad interest of Southern Oregon, by opposing what the Statesman calls the 'famous Williams' amendment' This we absolutely deny. Mr Corbett was in favor of a branch road from the Central Pacific to the Oregon and California road There were many conflicting interests to be reconciled before a grant for such a road could be obtained After much discussion and difference a bill was finally agreed upon among the representatives of all the conflicting interests, making a magnificent grant of land for the construction of the road and leaving the point of junction with the Oregon and California road, which had been the chief bone of contention, to be determined by the Engineers When this bill was reported back to the Senate for final passage Senator Williams introduced his amendment Senator Corbett opposed the amendment because its adoption would raise suspicion of a want of good faith and would excite such opposition as might endanger the bill itself The amendment was adopted by the Senate and the bill as amended put upon its passage when Mr Corbett voted for it It was then sent to the House, and Mr Corbett even followed it there and endeavored to allay the hostility which the amendment had created and thus to secure its success But his predictions made in the Senate were verified The bill failed in the House—owing to nothing but the adoption of the amendment But for this the bill would have passed and we should before this time have had a line of railway completed connecting with the Central Pacific, thus bringing us into direct railway communication with the Mississippi Valley and Atlantic States This is the truth the whole truth and nothing but the truth in regard to Senator Corbett s opposition to the famous Williams amendment —famous only for its damaging effect upon the material interests of the entire State and the Southern portions of it in particular

Third—The third charge of the Statesman is that Senator Corbett favored the North Pacific Railway The law under which that company is now engaged in the construction of a railway across the continent requires it to build its road down the valley of the Columbia to Portland and thence to its terminus on the Puget Sound Mr Corbett favored that law and by this stroke of policy prevented Holladay from continuing his road from the Wallamet Valley straight through to the Sound to meet the North Pacific which would have crossed the Cascade range at Snoqualmie pass Thus is Portland made the centre of the entire railway system of the northern coast and her future prosperity and greatness are secured Is it better that the metropolis of our State should be thus made the terminus of all the railways on the northern coast than that the entire State be ignored and Puget Sound made the seat of the great commercial emporium of the North west If it is Mr Corbett deserves condemnation for his course If it is not he deserves censure

Knowing as we do what of the circumstances of the case are we are surprised and indignant at the effort to exhibit Senator Corbett as a Republican Journal feels about to exercise the old month piece of one of the candidates for the United States Senate But it is difficult to frame a plausible excuse for such unfounded charges as those we have here exposed Mr Mitchell would find it to his advantage to curb the overweening zeal of the editor of his personal organ or else require him to make no incorrect statements of fact except such as could not be so easily detected

A SELF MADE PRESIDENT —In a card in the Statesman of the 14th instant over the signature of T R Cornelius Senator from Washington county, that Honorable gentleman advertises, that 'at a meeting of the Republican members of the Legislative Assembly held on Tuesday evening the 10th inst', an organization was effected the undersigned was chosen President and empowered to call the meeting, together at such times as should be thought proper

If this modest announcement had stopped here one would naturally suppose that the Senator had been chosen President of a meeting of Republican members, then held and to be convened again whenever it appeared proper for consultation upon such matters as were for the good of the party, all of which would be commendable certainly But the Senator proceeds to state that he has concluded to order a caucus to be held on Monday evening, the 11th instant (to day) for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the United States Senate declares this to be the way it has always been done, and signs himself Chairman Republican Caucus

If there were no other reason for suspecting this to be a scheme devised to cheat a portion of the Republican members out of the right to have a voice in the party organization, the fact that it was not known even at Salem for three or four days after this arrangement is said to have been made, would suggest to outsiders that there was a cat in the meal But it is not necessary to resort to inference We have it direct from quite a number of Republican members that they have never been present at any meeting wherein the Honorable Senator was made chairman of a caucus on the Senatorial question or wherein it was ever agreed that any such caucus should be held And furthermore we have this information from so many that (if they speak truly, as we have no doubt they do), it is impossible that there could have been at any such meeting a sufficient number of Republican members to elect a United States Senator if they voted unanimously for one candidate A part of the Republicans may have made the Honorable Senator from Washington county President of themselves, but who made him Chairman of the 'Republican caucus of the Legislature? If the Republicans should conclude they need such a chairman we know of no man better fitted for the position than the Honorable Senator from Washington county, but the preliminary question, it would seem, should be settled first. We have always admired self-made men, but we venture to suggest that this is an instance of crowding the matter a little

If the Republicans at Salem conclude to adopt the caucus as the means best calculated to settle the Senatorial struggle to the satisfaction of the party, they have a right to do so, but it cannot but be productive of discord and loss of party struggle to attempt by any means to dragoon the members or any part of them into adopting that method against their own judgment when it is no essential or established part of Republican usage and has always proved disastrous when tried in Oregon The unity of a party is in its unanimity, and whenever the idea of organization is pushed to such an extent as to force any considerable portion of the party into unwilling acquiescence upon non essentials, dissatisfaction is inevitable, and disintegration may result

If a man uniformly supports the Republican platform, the Republican candidates and the Republican measures, he is certainly a good enough Republican to pass muster in any country, no matter what may be his ideas as to the best method of making nominations He who keeps a clear record on these points need have no fears about his standing in the the party, no matter what threats may be made against him by those who have personal ends to accomplish Let a man but stand firm and do his duty fearlessly, and no power can break down his reputation

It is not bolting to decline to go into caucus, but to go in and participate in the caucus proceedings and then refuse to abide by its decision this is bolting Such bolting has always followed the adoption of the caucus plan in Oregon and has produced great injury to the Republican party Judge the tree by its fruits 'Men do not gather figs from thistles' —not thistles from fig trees

Common sense on the Caucus Question

SALEM September 14 1872

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

May I beg your indulgence to give a few lines of space to an old Republican of Oregon?

I am here as a looker on merely but not with the deep interest which all good citizens should feel in the question of the hour I have heard all sides listened patiently to the greatest diversity of views and still more often to the expressions of personal and individual preference in this Senatorial discussion—all no doubt sincere, but many of them mistaken

My present purpose is to call the attention of our Republican friends as well elsewhere as at this Capital to one or two simple propositions of principle which seem to be overlooked by not a few of the excited swarm of politicians at present buzzing through the highways bye places and close chambers of Salem

1st The beauty of the caucus Simply and properly the caucus is only when not abused a just and well guarded provision to insure the united action of a majority so that a minority shall not triumph through the division of the majority strength This and the Republican mode to accomplish it in all cases where it is without its efficacy application the majority of a town will secure an undivided control in politics at all elections and power Hence in our primary and all local elections the State Constitution recognizing always practically the as inherent right reason supports usage in resorting to the caucus system to exclude the danger of so frittering away the strength of the majority—agreeing upon principles but various as to personal preference for men—as that the minority candidate with perhaps considerably less than half of the entire vote, should be elected The Republicans of a Legislative District may number 1 000 votes and the opposition but 700 if the Republicans without a convention or caucus run two or three candidates giving them each from 400 to 500 votes the opposition with but one candidate are sure to elect their man who thus will misrepresent the political opinions of a majority of his constituents In the interest of a just Republican supremacy it has been wise custom to harmonize in popular convention upon but one candidate seeking for the public good all minor considerations In any other way a popular vote is uttering, it may would be in positive peril of being overwhelmed by corrupt interests at every election by the people

But Besides applying to the State under the same Constitution by State legislature These elections without any exception absolutely require a majority of the electors to be cast for the successful candidate Take the election of an U S Senator for example Whoever wins must have an absolute majority of all votes in the joint convention No plurality elects here

Observe the difference Without the caucus the popular elections would give a triumphant plurality to a minority of the people Without the caucus the legislative election can not result in a minority triumph let the majority scatter their votes as they please So long as all the Republican members vote only for Republican candidates no Democrat can ever be chosen

Why then this clamor for the application of the caucus system —device has the only expedient to avert a greater evil in popular elections—to another and quite a different elective system

If a plurality vote would elect a Senator every Republican should lay aside all his personal feelings cheerfully and promptly and submit to the choice of a majority of his political friends But, under our Constitution, no such emergency can be offered to us'

I have no apprehensions that any one vote of our fifteen Republican majority will ever be cast for any but Republican candidates Who dares to intimate that any Republican Senator or Representative proposes or can be procured to prove so false to his constituents and his faith'

The only reason calling the legislative caucus should go to the ground with it as an intolerable abuse of the expedient

Again I submit that this is strictly the logical and the constitutional and only wise view It is constitutional, because under no just interpretation of constitutional law can a delegated power ever be sub-delegated again The duty of voting for a Senator is expressly committed by the people of each district for themselves, to their Representatives or Senators alone Where is the authority in law where the excuse from necessity for insisting that these legislators shall divest themselves of the sacred trust by submitting their own votes to the will of other constituencies? And I say that any resort to the caucus system in this case is unwise So long as Republicans shall vote only for Republicans, so long no election can occur except by Republican votes And no opposition triumph is possible Let members vote in convention for whatever candidate—a dozen more or less can do no harm—shall seem them most acceptable to their respective constituencies' Let feeling be laid aside' The necks that never wore a collar will chafe at the bare menace of its application In the joint convention is to be had the only logical and constitutional expression of the popular will And that expression will be safe politically under the majority requirement and wise because that expression duly and justly made cannot fail to result in an ultimate agreement of a just minded and patriotic Republican majority

As a Republican citizen of Oregon and caring more for a political supremacy won by no tricks and carrying with it no sting than for any personal or ephemeral success of one man over another I appeal to our friends in the Legislature to think wisely act calmly and keep always within the lines of the Constitution and of common sense

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

The question of who shall be elected United States Senator is at present the all absorbing one at the State Capital Mr Mitchell s friends are making every effort to drive with the party whip every Republican to his support There are men in the Legislature who fully understand Mr Mitchell s former and his present manipulations, and therefore are not disposed to submit to him or the crack of his whip Let me call to mind his manipulations in Multnomah county how he, as the attorney of the railroad corporation, induced that Company to bring into the primaries of Portland about six hundred railroad hands five hundred of whom though known Democrats, were good enough for his purpose to defeat the will of the people at the primaries He now cries out that Democrats are not fit to vote upon the Senator at question He assumes intelligent Democrats are inclined to vote for a man who has done more for the interests of Oregon than any other representative we have had at Washington, rather than for himself, and he cries out Disorganization ' He is willing to disorganize the party and defeat the will of the people in the primaries he is willing to pollute the fountain head but he is all party in caucus—as pure as when his friends broke up the caucus six years ago By such political tricks as this disorganization is produced

What was the next step in the programme Mr Mitchell and his faithful manipulators cry out that the Democrats favor Mr Corbett If that be true at all we have good reason to believe that because Mr Corbett has served the state and his constituents faithfully they prefer that if he or Mr Mitchell must go Mr Corbett be chosen If they look to the best interests of the State, they could not hesitate in their choice. Mr Corbett has given his attention earnestly to the business interests of the people whether for Republican or Democrat and has thereby gained the confidence and the esteem of the best men of all parties To this as much as to anything else may be attributed the Republican success in Oregon

In politics Mr Corbett has always been an earnest and consistent Republican He does not resort to coarse and vulgar abuse of his opponent but relies upon persuasion and argument and the power of faithfulness and honesty in all his conduct Many of us call the members of the Legislature to know their wishes of their constituents and I know their preference for Mr Corbett They do know their hostility to Mr Mitchell on account of his having been for many years the legal and political attorney of that corporation No man who is willing to be made the tool of a corporation against the interests of the people will ever satisfy that people as a Senator for he cannot faithfully serve them Mr Corbett has proven himself reliable and independent of such influences and they believe it for the best interests of the State and the Republican party that he should be selected

So far as the caucus question is concerned there never has been a caucus held by the Union or Republican party in Oregon for nominating a United States Senator but has worked disorganization discussion and bitterness in the Republican party There has never been a caucus held by the Republican party which did not lead to charges of fraud and trickery and produce ill feeling and consequent defection of some of the members of the caucus and a refusal to be bound by its decisions These are facts which no intelligent man can possibly have that it is future but a joint convention which will secure as in the two former cases of Mr Harding and Mr Williams election neither of which left any bitterness or heart burning

If Mr Corbett goes to caucus I am confident he will never allow himself to be bound to disregard the caucus to nominate Mr Mitchell for Mr Mitchell

The Washington says Howard Maupin had an examination before James Campbell Justice of the Peace for the shooting of Frazier and was bound over in the sum five hundred dollars to appear at the next session of the District Court

FROM THE CAPITAL

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT

SALEM September 15 1872

If any of your readers doubt the propriety of building a State House at the Capital let them come to Salem and talk with the members of the Legislative assembly in session The rooms are a disgrace and when to be crowded the noise from the street about it becomes almost impossible to hear anything that is said Many of the members are packed in like sardines in a box so closely that their elbows are almost in each other s laps and the Speaker has to rap for order every few minutes to keep the noise from the street from drowning the voices of the members Then the lobbies are filled with people, who will crowd in when the doors are opened, and the consequence is that the air in the House is stifling and unbearable Many of the members are complaining of sickness from the bad air and it is a wonder that a fever has not broken out among them

THE STATE WORK

The friends of this much needed improvement will no doubt make a move this session and it is to be hoped they will meet with better success than it the hands of the last Legislature A bill will be introduced this week providing for a liberal appropriation out of the swamp lands fund to aid the construction of this road and if the gentlemen who filed their claims on swamp and overflowed land with such profuseness, will come down with their 20 cents an acre, there will be enough funds on hand to build all the roads needed in the country Certainly no one improvement can be of more general advantage than this road opening land communication between eastern and middle Oregon It would benefit a far larger scope of country than the locks at Oregon City at one tenth the cost

THE CLACKAMAS CONTEST

This question came up again and it was soon made evident that there is a disposition to keep the matter in suspense until after the Senatorial election in order to have some bearing on that question The friends of delay finding themselves in the minority resorted to dilatory motions and after calling the ayes and noes on every conceivable proposition succeeded in getting an adjournment without a vote Common justice would seem to dictate that there be no unnecessary delay in the matter If the sitting members are to hold their places they ought to be assured of the fact if not the others ought to be put in

Both Houses adjourned in the forenoon to meet to morrow afternoon and a great many of the members accompanied by a host of lobbyists left here for points up and down the railroad line

TO ADJOURN OR NOT TO ADJOURN

That is the question, and many are the expedients adopted to convince the members that the party cannot exist unless it holds secret meetings A part of the Republicans have met and resolved themselves into a party, have elected officers and issued their proclamations that all who do not obey shall be read out of the party Their call appears in the Statesman signed by their President but while he breathes out threatenings against all who do not acknowledge this secret authority unfortunately he forgets to state whence his authority comes A petition appears in to-day s Statesman from Lane county requesting the members from there to submit to this conclave When we reflect that with all the efforts that have been made and all the secrecy that has been kept in the matter less than two hundred names have been obtained in that large and populous county it does not seem that the people of Lane are a unit that way by any means

EDGAR A POE AT WEST POINT —Poe entered West Point in June 1830 and left some time in 1831 My authority for this statement is Gen George W Cullum who adds in answer to some inquiries with which I troubled him

As Poe was of the succeeding class to mine at West Point I remember him very well as a cadet He was a slovenly heedless boy very eccentric inclined to dissipation and of course, preferred making verses to solving equations While at the Academy he published a small volume of poems, dedicated to Bulwer in a long, rambling letter These verses were the source of great merriment with us boys who considered the author cracked and the verses ridiculous dog gerel Even after the lapse of forty years I can now recall these absurd lines from Isabel

Was not that a fairy ray! Isabel
How fantastically it fell
With a pallid twist and swell
And over the wet grass rippled away
Like the tinkling of a bell

Whether Poe resigned from West Point or he claimed or whether he was expelled as Dr Griswold declared I am unable to settle at the last moment by the following note from Brevet Major and Adjutant Edward C Boynton dated West Point March 1 1831

The records of the Military Academy show that Edgar A Poe was brought before a general court martial at West Point on the 7th of January 1831 under the following charges

Charge I Gross neglect of duty
Charge II Disobedience of orders

The specifications set forth that the said Poe had failed to attend divine service on Sunday morning and parade on Monday morning and that he had refused to make a return of his delinquencies to the officer of the day

The Secretary of War has directed that the proceedings of the court martial in the case of Cadet Edgar A Poe be published to the Corps of Cadets and entered on the Orderly Books of the several companies which has been accordingly done

Respectfully your obedient servant
JOSHUA BARNEY

TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS —It has been observed for that on many occasions the [illegible] constructed at each end of the Stark street [illegible] have been left open when funeral processions are crossing Our attention was especially called to the necessity of keeping these gates closed yesterday by an occurrence which came near to being seriously a procession, consisting of [illegible] number of carriages was crossing the ferry [illegible] about fifty yards from the western shore, when the teams became frightened, and commenced to rear up and plunge forward The panic was communicated to the other horses, and a general stampede appeared imminent for a few moments The refractory team was caught and held by force until the ladies and children could be safely led out One team came near backing [illegible] every thing soon quieted down, and the [illegible] of a precious freight of humanity reached the opposite shore in safety If the teams had been disposed, there was nothing to prevent any of them from backing off the boat into the river An occurrence of this kind, would have been attended with the most disastrous consequences to life and property Very strong, substantial gates ought to be constructed, and should be kept closed when teams cross

CHAINED —The employes on the Custom House building made Mr. Ezra St John, the late superintendent of construction, the recipient of a handsome and substantial testimonial of their esteem last Saturday evening. The testimonial consisted of a massive gold chain and chronometer watch—one of Howard's American best, with the latest improvements attached. The presentation speech was made by Mr John Clark, and was responded to by the latter in as neat a manner as could well be expected under the circumstances The surprise was so complete that Mr. St could scarcely find words with which to express his sense of obligation After the formalities were over the whole party adjourned to an oyster saloon of Charles Burchardt, where they indulged freely to a late hour. The watch and chain is worth about four hundred dollars On the inside of the case the following inscription is engraved 'Presented to E St John by the workmen of the Custom House, Portland, Oregon, as a testimonial of respect and esteem, Sept. 14th, 1872 '

PASSENGERS—The following passengers sailed for this city on the steamer Ajax which sailed on Saturday from San Francisco Geo Simpson, A Satterthwaite, L K Roberts, P Selling, Robertz, C Fishel and family, J B Martin, F Garrettson, E R White, Charles Hegele, Trotter, B Hamburger, Miss E K Cheadle, Dawson, M S Rallson, A A Smith, Mrs M Cotton Mrs Bradley, D F Smith, C Crosby, Bowler, Miss Haas, Mrs Blackwell, A Denny, Bartlett W Church, E C Protsman, C H Bates, Capt Butterville and wife, Lt Haughey, Lt W Starring, U S A, Mrs C Levy, G C Kains, Miss Marie Beard, G W Bailey, T Z Sisters of Charity (5), H Ulrich and son, Rothschild, Mrs A Kinsler, G Todd, R Livingston and family, Miss B [illegible] and niece, Ebenson, wife and sister, A Bettinger, Mettinger J B Wilson, R W Wilson, T Kirkham, C Gilday and daughter, Barney O'Neil.

A NEW MAP —From the evening paper we learn that the City Surveyor, W. S. C[illegible], is preparing a new map of the city, six by eight feet in dimensions, for the City Assessor The old map is 'Assessor's Map for 1872," and is used by him in making out the assessment of taxable property for the coming year In this new map the blocks the figures are placed about the blocks instead of in the center, which gives room for the Assessor to insert the owner of the property with any addition The map shows the extension of Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh and Thirteenth streets, with all the tracts within the city limits which were not laid off on the previous map.

MONDAY MORNING SEPT 16 1872

A MAD RUN.—Saturday evening about dark a horse attached to an express wagon became frightened at a piece of paper on First street, near the intersection with Main and ran off. The driver a German named Miller used all the power at his command to check the speed of the animal. The strain on the reins broke the bridle bits, which slipped back to the horses mouth. Finding it impossible to restrain the animal and that its speed was accelerating each moment Miller rose from the seat dropped the lines and took a leap. At the moment he made the hazardous leap one of the wheels struck the iron top of a fire cistern in the middle of the street. The sudden lurch threw Miller off his balance, so that he struck the pavement on the back portion of his head. He was picked up and removed to his house in an insensible condition. Medical assistance was summoned instantly. It was found that Miller's skull was badly fractured and that he had also suffered serious internal injuries. After remaining some time in an entirely unconscious condition the unfortunate man expired. The deceased was aged about thirty years. He has been employed on a ripe factory in the upper portion of the city, where he resided. He leaves a wife and several small children to mourn their sudden bereavement.

TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS.—It has been observed that on many occasions the gates constructed at each end of the Stark street ferry boat have been left open when funeral processions are crossing. Our attention was especially called to the necessity of keeping these gates closed yesterday by an occurrence which came near terminating very fatally. A procession, consisting of a number of carriages was crossing the ferry. When about fifty yards from the western shore one of the teams became frightened, and commenced to rear up and plunge forward. The panic was communicated to the other horses and a general stampede appeared imminent for a few minutes. The satisfactory team was caught and held by main force, until the ladies and children could be assisted out. One team came near backing off but every thing soon quieted down, and the boat with its precious freight of humanity reached the opposite shore in safety. If the teams had felt so inclined, there was nothing to prevent any or all of them from backing off the boat into the river. A repetition of this kind, would have been attended with the most disastrous consequences to life and property. Very strong substantial gates ought to be constructed, and should be kept closed at all times.

CHANGED.—The employes on the Custom House building made Mr. Ezra St John, the late superintendent of construction, the recipient of a handsome and substantial testimonial of their respect and esteem last Saturday evening. The present consisted of a massive gold chain and chronometer charm of Howard's American best, with the donors names attached. The presentation address was made by Mr John Clark, and was responded to by the beneficiary in as neat a manner as could well be expected under the circumstances. The surprise was so complete that Mr St John could scarcely find words with which to express his sense of obligation. After the formal presentation was over the whole party adjourned to the adjacent saloon of Charles Burghardt, where wine dinner freely to a late hour. The watch and chain are worth about four hundred dollars. On the inside of the case the following inscription is cut: "Presented to E St John by the workmen of the Custom House, Portland, Oregon, as a testimonial of respect and esteem, Sept 14th, 1872."

PASSENGERS.—The following passengers departed for this city on the steamer Ajax which sailed last Saturday from San Francisco. Gan Simpson W Satterthwaite, L K Roberts, P Selling Mrs ... C Fishel and family, J B Martin, Miss ... Watkinson, E K White, Charles Hegele James ... B Hamburger, Miss E R Cheadle, Mrs M M S Ralfson, A A Smith, Mrs M Wee... Miss Bradley, D F Smith, C Crosby G H ... Miss Hass, Mrs Blackwell, A Durey, T ... W Church, E C Protsman, G H Burnett, ... Mrs A Koontz, G Todd, R R Pur... and family, Miss Ritchie and niece, Lt ... wife and sister, A Bettinger, Miss Bet... J B Wilson, R W Wilson, T Kirchoff, Mrs ... and daughter, Barney O'Neil.

MAP.—From the evening paper we learn that City Surveyor, W S. Chapman, is preparing a map of the city, six by eight feet in size, for the City Assessor. The title of the Assessor's Map for 1873, and will be of much assistance to him in making out the assessment lists necessary for the coming year. In numerous cases the figures are placed above the lots in the center, which gives room for the owner of the block to insert the name of the owner engraved on the lots. The map shows the extension of Ninth, Eleventh and Thirteenth streets, with all the streets within the city limits which will be laid off on the previous map.

MEETING.—The Common Council held a meeting at the Chamber Saturday evening. Present—Mayor Wasserman Councilmen Barrett, Caywood, Hallock, Moreland Pratt and Savage and Hill. The meeting was for the special purpose of hearing the report of the Committee on Fire and Water on the question of the water supply. On motion of Mr Hallock, the report which was received and ordered to be placed on the table. Council then adjourned.

FOR SALEM.—Manager Waldron and company departed from this city for Salem yesterday. The company will open at Reed's Opera House this evening. "Macbeth" will be the first piece of the dramatic season there. The company will perform during the continuance of the Fair and the State Fair, after which they will return to this city and inaugurate a winter season at the Oro Fino Theater. Mr Waldron is a good manager, a fine scholarly actor, and is supported by a large, powerful and talented company. The new season at Salem cannot but prove a victory to the public and profitable to the management.

PORT TOWNSEND.—We clip the following complimentary notice of our city from the Vancouver Register:

"Our sister (mother, grandmother) city, Port Townsend, still flourishes and grows. The Puget Sound tornado has not given her the death blow Alabama and Shenandoah dealt her, and Vancouver has not injured the trade of her precious head. She stands on a commanding position, an ornament to our coast and the commercial metropolis of the Columbia District."

FIRE.—The residence of Mr Ed Cornell on Alder, near Park street, was entered last night while the family were all absent and a silver napkin rings (strange to say the rings was left behind either accidentally in the hurry, or by intention. The rings have the name of the owner engraved on them, the loss is but trifling.

WRECK.—The bark Alligator which was towed to the east side wharf a few days ago, was towed back to the west side depot after the river and a portion of her cargo received, before all the railroad iron was taken on board. Having taken on board a quantity of ballast she will discharge to-day.

—Our fourth page will be found the full report of the Committee on Water Supply. The document is of considerable length and will be continued through several issues of our paper. Its length would preclude its publication in full, were not the matter one in which every household in the city is interested.

CHRISTIANITY IN POLITICS.—This consideration of the subject of a discourse delivered yesterday morning at 7 30 o clock at the Unitarian Church by Rev T L Eliot. A large and fashionable audience was present who listened with marked attention to the excellent discourse.

OPEN MEETING.—An open air meeting was held last evening at the corner of First and Ash streets under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. A sermon was preached by the Rev Geo W Izer.

ARRIVED.—John S M Van Cleave of Salem, Oregon, was yesterday appointed Deputy Postmaster for the Columbia District by Post Master General Alexander Campbell, vice Wm B Molthrop resigned.

LOCAL BREVITIES

Moon light nights

Smoke on the retreat

Yesterday was a quiet day

Steamer due to morrow evening

Two mails daily to Kalama now

Street lamps a nuisance for the present

Annie Laurie recently fled down South

Beautiful days and cool refreshing nights

The water commissioners report is in order and will be seen elsewhere

Humpty Dumpy will be the great attraction at the theater.

The dockers work fifty feet of ground but the dock is still an abscher.

If you want to make your coat last have your vest and trowsers made first.

Two buildings for business purposes on Third and F streets are nearly completed.

Immense lace collars such as our grandmothers wore are coming into fashion again.

A number of our merchants return up from a business trip are passengers on the Ajax.

A reporter announces that the receipt of a large invoice of blackberries created a perceptible ripple in the toothpick trade.

A large number of members of the Legislature were in the city yesterday—taking advantage of the recess of both houses to this afternoon.

The steam shovel employed in excavating near the Summit has suspended operations for a few days on account of breaking several of the cast ings.

The track layers on the West Side Railroad are now putting down regularly about a mile of track every day and there is no doubt but that the road will be completed to St Joe within the present month or very early in October.

PERSONAL.

The following persons arrived overland at San Francisco yesterday bound for this place: Henry Dorgan Jos Wilson wife and family and Miss Mallard.

Among the arrivals by the steamer Oriflamme we notice the name of J D Hathaway Esq general agent for G W Gaists & Axs tobacco works of Baltimore Md.

Mr. St John, former Superintendent of Construction on the Custom House will take his departure for the Atlantic States on the steamer Ajax. He will remain several months or probably until next spring. Mr St John goes east to transact business.

Coll VanCleve, proprietor of the Albany Register, was in the city with an infantry cap on. As soon as he lost his cap he left. Speaking of VanCleve reminds us that the Register is ahead of all its Oregon contemporaries. It now comes out handsomely illustrated with engravings of Oregon scenery. If enterprise and pluck can make a newspaper go, Coll's paper will be a success.

We were yesterday favored with a call from Col D H Lyman, of Pennsylvania, for some years editor of the Pittsburg Gazette, and now in the employ of the Government. He has dealt many of the hardest blows which the various anti Republican organizations have received in Pennsylvania and to the nation at large and his heart is still warm in the cause of the old party of truth and justice.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

As will be seen by consulting the advertising columns the Lafayette restaurant has been purchased out by Chris Adami, who will endeavor in the future to merit a fair share of public patronage.

COUP.—The Sportsmen's Club held their regular meeting at the Police Court room last evening. Two new members were elected and an amendment to the by laws adopted, after which they adjourned until the second Saturday in October, 1872, at the same place.

CARNOT'S EXPERIENCE.—There has been a decided change in personnel of the photographic establishment of Bushtel, by the presence of Mr E. H Stolts as a partner with Mr Bushtel. Mr Carl Bosco, the famous artist continues to transfer physiognomies to plate in a manner that meets with general approval. Messrs Bushtel & Stolts have on exhibition daily at the entrance to the Gallery Corbett's Building, First street between Washington and Alder, the finest display of work in their particular line ever produced in the State, and in the East it would be difficult to find anything to excel it. The firm and these connected with it need no words of praise. The work they produce is the best endorsement any gallery could have.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Hidden Hand was rendered at Oro Fino Theater for the last time Saturday to a crowded house.

We learn that the citizens of Portland will be favored with a pantomime troupe which is soon to appear.

RETURNED.—The Crystal Palace Circus returned to the city Saturday from a professional tour to Victoria and the Sound.

The Theater Comique opened last Saturday evening to an overflowing house with a new and talented company just from San Francisco under the management of N Hockguste. The Comique will be open every evening.

A grand ball will be given Wednesday evening at the Armory Hall. It will be under the auspices of the members of the Improved Order of Red Men and the proceeds are to be applied to charitable purposes. The Order will spare no expense to make the occasion one of pleasure to all who may desire to attend.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

We gather the following items from the British Colonist:

A gas main broke on Victoria a short time since and for a while dark and dismal was the night.

A recent survey has established the fact that Valdez Island to the north of Victoria laid down on the charts as one, consists of four instead of one.

The Chamber of Commerce is about to be put upon a firm basis with the object of co operating with the Dominion Board of Trade in matters connected with commerce.

The body of Mr Hawkins, who was drowned in the gorge at Victoria some nine days ago was found some distance above that point on the 8th inst, lying against a snag.

It is rumored that the Sir Hugh Allan and McPherson Pacific Railway Companies have been amalgamated, and that the necessary steps for organizing the amalgamated companies is in progress.

We are reliably informed that all the mechanics in Victoria have their hands full and are wanting laboring hands to assist them but cannot get them for love or money and have to employ any one that comes along.

We are sorry to learn that Mr Stoddard a settler in Cranberry District Nanaimo, met with a very severe loss during the prevalence of the recent forest fires. He had just laid in a stock of provisions when the fire came and swept away homes and all—house tools clothing—everything.

Disease Boosts

From the system that has been invigorated and regulated by a course of that most beneficent of all vegetable alteratives Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Such, at least, is the inference we are compelled to draw from the testimony of thousands of persons residing in unhealthy districts who attribute their escape from the epidemic and other complaints which prevail there in the spring and autumn solely to the use of this great protective and preventive medicine. Many western and southern farmers and planters as invariably as they plant and sow in the spring and reap and gather in the fall, administer it at those seasons to their families and employes and take it themselves from twice to three times a day. The demand for it in the fever and ague districts bordering on the Mississippi Ohio and Arkansas rivers is immense and wherever the natural conditions are such as to generate intermittent or remittent fevers it is held in the highest esteem both as an antidote to the atmospheric virus which provokes them and as a swift and certain remedy for those distressing forms of disease. It is almost unnecessary to say that it is renowned tonic and renovator is now generally accepted as a standard specific for indigestion biliousness nervous distemper rheumatism physical weakness and mental despondency not only by the public at large but by ill unprejudiced medical men. The vast popularity of the Bitters has for some time led to many contemptible attempts at imitation on the part of which the community are cautioned to be on their guard.

PLANTATION BITTERS!

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the shoot anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates tropical, temperate or frigid it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

Time for Work

On the 5th of November the Presidential election will be held There is less than two months in which to organize and prosecute the campaign From the other States intelligence comes that the work is already pushing vigorously forward Grant and Wilson clubs have been formed in Portland and Salem, but we have not heard of their formation elsewhere in the State There should be clubs in every county and precinct It is true there is no danger of Oregon being carried by the Greeleyites, but that is no reason why we should lie still when by a good, strong, hearty push we could greatly increase the Republican majority What with the prestige of the recent victories at the east and those that are to come before the Presidential election, the increasing disgust of the Democracy at the Greeley surrender and the demoralization in the ranks of the opposition occasioned by the Louisville movement, the Republican party in Oregon ought not to be satisfied with less than 2 000 majority for Grant and Wilson We can secure that gain if we but set to work in good earnest for it Let it not be said that Oregon is the only State that fails to have increased Republican majority, when all the circumstances afford us so grand an opportunity Republicans to the front!

Some Misstatements Corrected

The official conduct of a Senator of the United States is always a legitimate subject of comment, and it is to be expected that when he is brought forward as an aspirant for re election those who prefer another man will make the most of all his sins, both of omission and commission But it is not expected that in order to establish a basis for unfriendly criticism, a public journalist, especially one inside his own party, will state as facts that which is well known to most persons of intelligence to be wholly without foundation in truth

We are led to this reflection by the course pursued by the Statesman in regard to Senator Corbett Passing over the ill natured thrusts at Mr Corbett which compose the staple of nearly all the articles published in the Statesman for the past few days we desire to attract attention to some misstatements of fact which appear in reference to Corbett s course in the Senate, upon questions relating to our railway system

First—The Statesman says that Mr Corbett opposed an extension of time by Congress, for the Oregon Central Railway Company to comply with the land-grant act under which it was building its road The facts in the case are There were two companies operating under the name of the Oregon Central Railroad Company, one on the east side and the other on the west side of the Willamet river That on the west side was the older company and had been designated as the company to receive the land grant, before the other was in existence The east side company was organized, and that series of transactions will be long remembered as the "A J Cook & Co swindle"—a name given to it, we believe, by T R Cornelius—ended in the east side company getting up a claim to the land grant This claim was monstrously and baldly indefensible upon any principle of law or honesty and was so pronounced by every one who took pains to investigate it, not even excepting many of those who would have been indirectly benefited by its success Under these circumstances Mr Mitchell proceeded to Washington as the attorney of the A J Cook & Co. concern, and asked the passage of an act extending the time for that concern to complete the road Mr. Corbett opposed it as an attempt to take away the vested rights of the old west side company and vest them in the other company unjustly, thus perpetrating a wrong upon those who had invested their money in the west side organization

Second—The next charge of the Statesman is that Mr Corbett acted against the railroad interest of Southern Oregon by opposing what the Statesman calls the 'famous Williams' amendment' This we absolutely deny Mr Corbett was in favor of a branch road from the Central Pacific to the Oregon and California road There were many conflicting interests to be reconciled before a grant for such a road could be obtained After much discussion and difference a bill was finally agreed upon among the representatives of all the conflicting interests making a magnificent grant of land for the construction of the road and leaving the point of junction with the Oregon and California road, which had been the chief bone of contention, to be determined by the Engineers When this bill was reported back to the Senate for final passage Senator Williams introduced his amendment Senator Corbett opposed the amendment because its adoption would raise suspicion of a want of good faith and would excite such opposition as might endanger the bill itself The amendment was adopted by the Senate and the bill as amended put upon its passage when Mr Corbett voted for it It was then sent to the House, and Mr Corbett even followed it there and endeavored to allay the hostility which the amendment had created and thus to secure its success But his predictions made in the Senate were verified The bill failed in the House—owing to nothing but the adoption of the amendment But for this the bill would have passed and we should before this time have had a line of railway completed connecting with the Central Pacific, thus bringing us into direct railway communication with the Mississippi Valley and Atlantic States This is the truth the whole truth and nothing but the truth in regard to Senator Corbett s opposition to the famous Williams amendment —famous only for its damaging effect upon the materia interests of the entire State and the Southern portions of it in particular

Third—The third charge of the Statesman is that Senator Corbett favored the North Pacific Railway The law under which that company is now engaged in the construction of a railway across the continent, requires it to build its road down the valley of the Columbia to Portland and thence to its terminus on the Puget Sound Mr Corbett favored that law and by this stroke of policy prevented Holladay from continuing his road from the Wallamet Valley straight through to the Sound to meet the North Pacific which would have crossed the Cascade range at Snoqualmie pass Thus is Portland made the centre of the entire railway system of the northern coast and her future prosperity and greatness are secured Is it better that the metropolis of our State should be thus made the terminus of all the railways on the northern coast than that the entire State be ignored and Puget Sound made the seat of the great commercial emporium of the Northwest If it is Mr Corbett deserves condemnation for his course if not he deserves censure.

Knowing them what of the circumstances relating thereto, the Statesman we are not surprised that it continues to exchange its position as a Republican journal for that of an echo and mouth piece of one of the candidates for the United States Senate but it is difficult to frame a plausible excuse for such unfounded charges as those we have here exposed Mr Mitchell would find it to his advantage to curb the overweening zeal of the editor of his personal organ or else require him hereafter to make no incorrect statements of fact except such as could not be so easily detected

A SELF MADE PRESIDENT In a card in the Statesman of the 11th instant over the signature of T R Cornelius Senator from Washington county, that Honorable gentleman advertises that at a meeting of the Republican members of the Legislative Assembly, held on Tuesday evening the 10th inst, an organization was effected the undersigned was chosen President and empowered to call the meeting together at such times as should be thought proper

If this modest announcement had stopped here, one would naturally suppose that the Senator had been chosen President of a meeting of Republican members, then hold and to be convened again whenever it appeared proper for consultation upon such matters as were for the good of the party all of which would be commendable certainly But the Senator proceeds to state that he has concluded to order a caucus to be held on Monday evening, the 9th instant (to day) for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the United States Senate, declares this to be the way it has always been done and signs himself Chairman Republican Caucus

If there were no other reason for suspecting this to be a scheme devised to cheat a portion of the Republican members out of the right to have a voice in the party organization, the fact that it was not known even at Salem for three or four days after this arrangement is said to have been made would suggest to outsiders that there was 'a cat in the meal' But it is not necessary to resort to inference We have it direct from quite a number of Republican members that they have never been present at any meeting wherein the Honorable Senator was made chairman of a caucus on the Senatorial question or wherein it was ever agreed that any such caucus should be held And furthermore, we have this information from so many that (if they speak truly as we have no doubt they do), it is impossible that there could have been at any such meeting a sufficient number of Republican members to elect a United States Senator if they voted unanimously for one candidate A part of the Republicans may have made the Honorable Senator from Washington county President of themselves, but who made him Chairman of the Republican caucus' of the Legislature? If the Republicans should conclude they need such a chairman we know of no man better fitted for the position than the Honorable Senator from Washington county, but the preliminary question, it would seem, should be settled first We have always admired self-made men, but we venture to suggest that this is an instance of crowding the matter a little

If the Republicans at Salem conclude to adopt the caucus as the means best calculated to settle the Senatorial struggle to the satisfaction of the party, they have a right to do so, but it cannot but be productive of discord and loss of party struggle to attempt by any means to dragoon the members or any part of them into adopting that method against their own judgment when it is no essential or established part of Republican usage and has always proved disastrous when tried in Oregon The unity of a party is in its unanimity, and whenever the idea of organization is pushed to such an extent as to force any considerable portion of the party into unwilling acquiescence upon non essentials dissatisfaction is inevitable, and disintegration may result

If a man uniformly supports the Republican platform, the Republican candidates and the Republican measures, he is certainly a good enough Republican to pass muster in any country, no matter what may be his ideas as to the best method of making nominations He who keeps a clear record on these points need have no fears about his standing in the party, no matter what threats may be made against him by those who have personal ends to accomplish Let a man but stand firm and do his duty fearlessly and no power can break down his reputation

It is not bolting to decline to go into caucus but to go in and participate in the caucus proceedings and then refuse to abide by its decision this is bolting Such bolting has always followed the adoption of the caucus plan in Oregon and has produced great injury to the Republican party Judge the tree by its fruits 'Men do not gather figs from thistles —nor thistles from fig trees

SALEM September 11 1872

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

May I beg your indulgence to give a few lines of space to an old Republican of Oregon

I am here as a looker on merely but yet with the deep interest which all good citizens should feel in the question of the hour I have heard all sides listened patiently to the greatest diversity of views, and still more often to the expressions of personal and individual preference in this Senatorial discussion—all no doubt sincere, but many of them mistaken

My present purpose is to call the attention of our Republican friends, as well elsewhere as at this Capital, to one or two simple propositions of principle which seem to be overlooked by not a few of the excited swarm of politicians at present buzzing through the highways bye places and close chambers of Salem

1st The theory of the caucus Simply and properly the caucus is only when not abused a just and well guarded provision to insure the united expression of a majority so that minorities shall not trample through the division of the majority strength This end the Republican uses to accomplish where it is with out its effective application the minority opposition will secure an undue control in political influence and power Hence in our primary and in popular elections, the State Constitution recognizing always a plurality vote as sufficient to elect reason supports usage in resorting to the caucus system to exclude the danger of so frittering away the strength of the majority—agreed upon principles but various as to personal preference for men—as that the minority candidate with perhaps considerably less than half of the entire vote, should be elected The Republicans of a Legislative District may number 1 000 votes and the opposition but 700 of the Republicans without a convention or caucus run two or three candidates giving them each from 300 to 350 votes the opposition with but one candidate are sure to elect their man who thus will misrepresent the political opinions of a majority of his constituents In the interest of a just Republican supremacy it has been a wise custom to harmonize in popular convention upon but one candidate sinking for the public good all minor considerations In any other way or together it is fittingly a majority would in positive part if being overwhelmed by the equal minority by its division by the people

But this description applies to the method under the same Constitution by state elections These elections without one exception absolutely require a majority of the votes cast to be cast for the successful candidate Take the election of an U S Senator for example! Whoever wins must have an absolute majority of all votes in the joint convention No plurality elects here

Observe the difference! Without the caucus, the popular elections would give a triumphant plurality to a minority of the people Without the caucus, the legislative election can not result in a minority triumph let the majority scatter their votes as they please So long as all the Republican members vote only for Republican candidates, no Democrat can ever be chosen

Why, then this clamor for the application of the caucus system —devised as the only expedient to avert a greater evil in popular elections—to another and quite a different election system

If a plurality vote would elect a Senator every Republican should lay aside all his personal feelings cheerfully and promptly and submit to the choice of a majority of his political friends But under our Constitution no such emergency can be offered to us!

I have no apprehensions that any one vote of our fifteen Republican majority will ever be cast for any but Republican candidates Who dares to insinuate that any Republican Senator or Representative proposes, or can be procured to prove false to his constituents and his faith!

The only reason failing, the legislative caucus should go to the ground with it as an intolerable abuse of the expedient

Again, I submit that this is not only the logical but the constitutional and only wise view It is constitutional, because under no just interpretation of constitutional law can a delegated power ever be sub delegated again The duty of voting for a Senator is expressly committed, by the people of each district for themselves, to their Representatives or Senators alone Where is the authority in law, where the excuse from necessity, for insisting that these legislators shall divest themselves of the sacred trust, by submitting their own votes to the will of other constituencies? And I say that any resort to the caucus system in this case is unwise So long as Republicans shall vote only for Republicans so long no election can occur except by Republican votes And no opposition triumph is possible Let members vote in convention for whatever candidate—a dozen more or less can do no harm—shall seem them most acceptable to their respective constituencies! Let feeling be laid aside! The rocks that never wore a collar will chafe at the bare menace of its application In the joint convention is to be had the only logical and constitutional expression of the popular will And that expression will be safe politically, under the majority requirement and wise because that expression calmly and quietly made, cannot fail to result in an ultimate agreement of a just minded and patriotic Republican majority

As a Republican citizen of Oregon and caring more for a political supremacy won by no tricks and carrying with it no sting than for any personal or ephemeral success of one man over another, I appeal to our friends in the Legislation to think wisely, act calmly and keep always within the lines of the Constitution, and of common sense

The question of who shall be elected United States Senator is at present the all-absorbing one at the State Capital Mr Mitchell s friends are making every effort to drive with the party whip every Republican to his support There are men in the Legislature who fully understand Mr Mitchell s former and his present manipulations and therefore are not disposed to submit to him or the crack of his whip Let me call to mind his manipulations in Multnomah county how he, as the attorney of the railroad corporation, induced that Company to bring into the primaries of Portland about six hundred railroad hands five hundred of whom, though known Democrats, were good enough for his purpose to defeat the will of the people at the primaries He now cries out that Democrats are not fit to vote upon the Senatorial question! He assumes intelligent Democrats are inclined to vote for a man who has done more for the interests of Oregon than any other representative we have had at Washington rather than for himself, and he cries out Disorganization! He is willing to disorganize the party and defeat the will of the people in the primaries, he is willing to pollute the fountain head, but he is all purity in caucus—as pure as when his friends broke up the caucus six years ago By such political tricks as this disorganization is produced

What was the next step in the programme Mr Mitchell and his faithful manipulators cry out that the Democrats favor Mr Corbett If that be true at all, we have good reason to believe that because Mr Corbett has served the state and his constituents faithfully, they prefer that if he or Mr Mitchell must go, Mr Corbett be chosen If they look to the best interests of the State they could not hesitate in their choice Mr Corbett has given his attention earnestly to the business interests of the people whether for Republican or Democrat and has thereby gained the confidence and the esteem of the best men of all parties In this as much as to anything else may be attributed the Republican success in Oregon

In politics Mr Corbett has always been an earnest and consistent Republican He does not resort to coarse and vulgar abuse of his opponents, but relies upon persuasion at all argument and the power of full fulness and honesty in all his conduct Many if not all the members of the Legislature know the wishes of their constituents and know their preference for Mr Corbett They also know their hostility to Mr Mitchell on account of his having been for many years the leading and political attorney of a great corporation No man who is willing to be made the tool of a corporation against the interests of the people will ever satisfy that people as a Senator for he cannot faithfully serve them Mr Corbett has proven himself reliable and independent of such influences and they believe it for the best interests of the State and the Republican party that he should be selected

So far as the caucus question is concerned there never has been a caucus held by the Union or Republican party in Oregon for nominating a United States Senator It has worked disorganization dissension and bitterness in the Republican party There has never been a caucus held by the Republican party which did not lead to charges of fraud and trickery and produce ill feeling and consequent defection of some of the members of the caucus and a refusal to abide by such decisions These are facts which are indisputable therefore no members of the Republican party have that it is better to reject the caucus altogether than to have a repetition of the two former cases of Mr Harding and Mr Williams elections neither of which left any bitterness or heart burnings

If Mr Corbett goes in a caucus we firmly believe he will never allow a trick to disregard the caucus nominee can we say as much for Mr Mitchell [illegible] the latter

The Statesman says Howard Maupin had an examination before James Campbell Justice of the Peace for the shooting of [illegible] Grafer and was bound over in the sum of five hundred dollars to appear at the next session of the District Court

SALEM September 14 18

If any fusing leaders doubt the property of building a State House at the capital let them come to Salem and look at the list of presidentships which in session The room and accommodations which would be furnished from the stronghold of Mossbackism would be quite sufficient for the entire legislature of Multnomah county

But this description applies to the method under the same Constitution by state elections These elections without one exception absolutely require a majority of the votes cast to be cast for the successful candidate Take the election of an U S Senator for example! Whoever wins must have an absolute majority of all votes in the joint convention No plurality elects here

Observe the difference! Without the caucus, the popular elections would give a triumphant plurality to a minority of the people Without the caucus, the legislative election can not result in a minority triumph let the majority scatter their votes as they please So long as all the Republican members vote only for Republican candidates, no Democrat can ever be chosen

Why, then this clamor for the application of the caucus system —devised as the only expedient to avert a greater evil in popular elections—to another and quite a different election system

If a plurality vote would elect a Senator every Republican should lay aside all his personal feelings cheerfully and promptly and submit to the choice of a majority of his political friends But under our Constitution no such emergency can be offered to us!

A MAN [illegible] Saturday evening was arrested and locked up in the police station house bed to an express wagon and came frightened [illegible] piece of paper came near [illegible] interfering with Main street near [illegible] waterman named Mike [illegible] The [illegible] command to check him [illegible] he [illegible] and [illegible] of the animals The streets on the route [illegible] bridge [illegible] which slipped back to the breast [illegible] making it impossible to start [illegible] and his speed was accelerated [illegible] moment When near from the real dog [illegible] and [illegible] and when [illegible] the hydrant [illegible] he gave one of the wheels such a [illegible] iron top of a fire cistern in the middle of Alder street The sudden lurch threw Miller [illegible] balance so that he struck the pavement [illegible] back portion of his head. He was picked up and removed to his house in a [illegible] condition Medical assistance was immediately summoned instantly It was found that the skull was badly fractured, and that he had sustained serious internal injuries [illegible] remaining some time in an entirely unconscious condition the unfortunate man expired [illegible] deceased was aged about thirty years He was [illegible] carrying on a trips factory in the upper part of the city where he resided He leaves a wife and several small children to mourn their untimely bereavement

TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS —It has been observed fact that on many occasions the [illegible] constructed at each end of the Stark street bridge must have been left open when funeral processions are crossing Our attention was especially called to the necessity of keeping these gates closed every day by an occurrence which came near being seriously A procession, consisting of a number of carriages was crossing the ferry [illegible] about fifty yards from the western shore when the teams became frightened, and commenced rearing up and plunging forward The panic which communicated to the other horses and a general stampede appeared imminent for a few moments The refractory team was caught and held by the bridge tender until the ladies and children could be safely landed out One team came near backing off the dock, but every thing soon quieted down, and the balance of the precious freight of humanity reached the opposite shore in safety If the teams had been disposed, there was nothing to prevent any of them from backing off the boat into the river An occurrence of this kind, would have been attended with the most disastrous consequences to life and property Very strong, substantial gates ought to be constructed, and should be kept closed when teams cross

CHANGED —The employes on the Custom House building made Mr. Ezra St. John, the late superintendent of construction, the recipient of [illegible] some and substantial testimonial of their [illegible] and esteem last Saturday evening. The present consisted of a massive gold chain and chronometer watch—one of Howard's American best, with the latest improvements attached. The presentation speech was made by Mr John Clark, and responded to by the [illegible] very happy manner as could well be expected under the circumstances The surprise was so complete that Mr St could scarcely find words with which to express his sense of obligation After the formalities were over the whole party adjourned to Ryan's oyster saloon of Charles Burchhardt, where they indulged freely to a late hour The watch alone is worth about four hundred dollars On the case the following inscription is engraved "Presented to E St John by the workmen of the Custom House, Portland, Oregon, as a token of respect and esteem, Sept 14th, 1872"

CITY.

A MAN KNOCKED —Saturday evening about ... cars a horse attached to an express wagon be... came frightened at a piece of paper on First ... street, near the intersection with Main and ran ... off The driver a German named Miller used ... all the power at his command to check the speed ... of the animal The strain on the reins broke the ... bridle bits which slipped back to the horses ... breast Finding it impossible to restrain the ... animal and that its speed was accelerating each ... moment Miller rose from the seat dropped the ... lines and took a leap At the moment he made ... the hazardous leap one of the wheels struck the ... iron top of a fire cistern in the middle of the ... street The sudden lurch threw Miller off his ... balance, so that he struck the pavement on the ... back portion of his head He was picked up ... and removed to his house in an in... sensible condition Medical assistance was ... summoned instantly It was found that Miller's ... skull was badly fractured, and that he had also ... suffered serious internal injuries After re... gaining some time in an entirely unconscious ... condition the unfortunate man expired The de... ceased was aged about thirty years He has been ... employed on a rope factory in the upper portion of ... the city, where he resided He leaves a wife and ... several small children to mourn their sudden bereavement

TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS —It has been an observed fact that on many occasions the gates constructed at each end of the Stark street ferry boat have been left open when funeral processions are crossing Our attention was especially called to the necessity of keeping these gates closed yesterday by an occurrance which came near terminating seriously A procession consisting of a number of carriages, was crossing the ferry When about fifty yards from the western shore one of the teams became frightened, and commenced to rear up and plunge forward The panic was communicated to the other horses and a general stampede appeared imminent for a few minutes The refractory team was caught and held by main force, until the ladies and children could be assisted out. One team came near backing off but fortunately nothing soon quieted down and the boat with its precious freight of humanity reached the opposite shore in safety If the teams had felt so inclined, there was nothing to prevent any or all of them from backing off the boat into the river In consequence of this kind, would have been attended with the most disastrous consequences to life and property Very strong, substantial gates ought to be constructed, and should be kept closed when not in use across.

CHANGED —The employes on the Custom House presented Mr Ezra St John the late superintendent of construction, the recipient of a handsome and substantial testimonial of their respect and esteem last Saturday evening The present consisted of a massive gold chain and chronometer with a number of Howard's American best, with the latest improvements attached The presentation address was made by Mr John Clark, and was responded to by the beneficiary in as neat a manner as could well be expected under the circumstances The surprise was so complete that Mr St John could scarcely find words with which to express his sense of obligation After the formal presentation was over the whole party adjourned to the oyster saloon of Charles Burchardt, where wine flowed freely to a late hour The watch and chain is worth about four hundred dollars On the inside of the case the following inscription is cut "Presented to E St John by the workmen of the Custom House, Portland, Oregon, as a testimonial of respect and esteem, Sept 14th, 1872"

PASSENGERS —The following passengers departed for this city on the steamer Ajax which sailed last Saturday from San Francisco Gen Simpson, W A Satterthwaite, L K Roberts, P Seiling Mrs ... tz, C Fuhel and family, J B Martin, Miss ... MAP —From the evening paper we learn, City Surveyor, W S. Chapman, is preparing a new map of the city, six by eight feet in size, for the City Assessor The title of the Assessor's Map for 1873," and will be of assistance to him in making out the assessment lists shortly for the coming year In numbered the figures are placed above the lots in the center, which gives room enough to inscribe the owner of the block when necessary The map shows the extension of Eleventh and Thirteenth streets, with all the lots within the city limits which are laid off on the previous map

MEETING —The Common Council held a meeting at the Chamber Saturday eve...

Present Mayor Wasserman, Councilmen Burrell, Haywood, Hallock, Moreland, Russell and Hill

CHERRY —We clip the following compliment to a lady of our city from the Vancouver ... "Our sister (mother, grandmother) ... lives and grows The Puget Sound ... has not given her the death blow Kalama ... killed her, and Vancouver has not injured ... of her precious head She stands on a ... throne, an ornament to our coast and ... metropolis of the Columbia

CHRISTIANITY IN POLITICS —This constitutes the subject of a discourse delivered yesterday evening at 7 30 o'clock at the Unitarian Church by Rev T L Eliot A large and fashionable audience was present who listened with close attention to the excellent discourse

OPEN AIR MEETING —An open air meeting was held last evening at the corner of First and Stark streets, the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. A sermon was preached by Rev Geo W Isler

BRITISH COLUMBIA

We gather the following items from the British Colonist

A gas main broke in Victoria a short time since and for a while dark and dismal was the night

A recent survey has established the fact that Valdez Island to the north of Victoria laid down on the charts as one consists of four instead of one

The Chamber of Commerce is about to be put upon a firm basis with the object of co operating with the Dominion Board of Trade in matters connected with commerce

The body of Mr Hawkins who was drowned in the gorge at Victoria some nine days ago was found some distance above that point on the 8th inst lying against a snag

It is rumored that the Sir Hugh Allan and McPherson Pacific Railway Companies have been amalgamated and that the necessary steps for organizing the amalgamated companies is in progress

We are reliably informed that all the mechanics in Victoria have their hands full and are wanting laboring hands to assist them but cannot get them for love or money and have to employ any one that comes along

We are sorry to learn that Mr Stoddard a settler in Cranberry District, Nanaimo, met with a very severe loss during the prevalence of the recent forest fires He had just laid in a stock of provisions, when the fire came and swept away homestead and all—house tools clothing—everything

Disease Recoils

From the system that has been invigorated and regulated by a course of that most beneficent of all vegetable cathartics, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters Such, at least, is the inference we are compelled to draw from the testimony of thousands of persons residing in unhealthy districts who attribute their escape from the epidemic and other complaints which prevail there in the spring and autumn solely to the use of this great protective and preventive medicine Many western and southern farmers and planters, so invariably as they plant and sow in the spring and reap and gather in the fall, administer it at those seasons to their families and employes and take it themselves from twice to three times a day The demand for it in the fever and ague districts bordering on the Mississippi Ohio and Arkansas rivers is immense and wherever the natural conditions are such as to generate intermittent or remittent fevers it is held in the highest esteem, both as an antidote to the atmospheric virus which provokes them and as a swift and certain remedy for those distressing forms of disease It is almost unnecessary to say that this renowned tonic and renovator is now generally accepted as a standard specific for indigestion Biliousness nervous distemper rheumatism physical weakness and mental despondency not only by the public at large, but by all manufactured medicines The vast popularity of the Bitters has of course led to many counterfeits and imitations against which the community are requested to be on their guard

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON WATER SUPPLY

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Portland: In pursuance of the recommendations contained in Mayor Waterman's first address to the Common Council and under authority from your honorable body, your Fire and Water Committee began in August 1871, an investigation of the different means and ways by which the city might be supplied with water with the view of ascertaining thereby the best way in which that object could be accomplished. Appreciating the importance of the subject, and with a view to greater efficiency being given the investigation the committee requested the Mayor to appoint a certain number of citizens to assist them. Dr. Brown, Mr. James O. Mears and Mr. P. D. Schuyler were thus appointed.

The joint committee thus organized decided at its first meeting that in order to a fire the problem of how the city could best be supplied with water, with such examination of all the probable sources of supply would have to be made by a competent and experienced hydraulic engineer, and accurate and reliable information thereon engineering such plans or systems of supplying, thus with water as had proved most efficient as to their place. The season being so far advanced that it was impossible to secure the services of such an engineer as was wanted in time to enable him to make the necessary surveys and examinations before the rainy season would begin it was decided to take up the latter branch of the subject first. In pursuance of this idea, Mr. Holly Manufacturing Company of Lockport, New York, who invited to send out here a person well versed in all that pertains to their peculiar system of water works capable of fully explaining its workings and of deciding upon the question of its adaptability to this city. That company promptly responded and proposed to send out one of its officers some time during the month of October. They afterwards postponed the time of departure no less than once, and it was not until January of this year that Mr. Hyatt, the president of the company, arrived in this place. The snow blockade on the railroad will other delayed him on his journey so that he did not arrive here until about the 20th of March.

He decided that there is nothing in the location or topography of our city to prevent its being supplied upon the Holly system with water taken either from the river or from wells dug along its bank. He proposed a high and low water distribution service upon the same general idea or plan as set forth in the report of Mr. Morris, herewith transmitted. From prices for machinery given by him, the committee roughly estimated the cost of a set of machinery for such service, capable of furnishing 3,000,000 gallons daily, together with building foundations &c., ready to distribute the water to be about $81,600. The expense of the distributing mains pipes hydrants, &c., would of course be the same as in the reservoir system. On his return to Lockport, he caused a map of an economical system of distribution to be prepared and sent to the committee and it is also herewith submitted. It is about the same in outline and general idea as that made by Mr. Morris, but differs in the filling up, saving thereby a large sum of money. But it is doubtful if real economy would be as much subserved by its adoption as by that of more elaborate plan of Mr. Morris.

For the purpose of ascertaining if a good and reliable supply of good water could be obtained from a well or wells dug near the river's brink the committee in September last caused a test well to be sunk on the flat at the southern extremity of the city. The spot chosen proved to be of a very unfavorable character for the test. The gravel bed which is known to underlie this whole region of country was not found at the depth expected, the boring being soon sunk in what proved to be a deep deposit of surface washings from the adjacent hills. A sufficient flow of water however, came into the well when it reached the level of the river to warrant the belief that with wells of suitable capacity sunk into the gravel bed an ample supply of water may be had at all times. The quality of the water as affected by impregnation from the soil and gravel, through which it would percolate, or by the drainage of the city, if the wells should be placed within its possible future limits, is a matter incapable of demonstration except by tedious experiments or long experience. It is to be regretted that the experiment well did not reach the gravel bed, as then an appropriate measurement of the flow into it, and a chemical test of the quality of the water could have been made, but owing to a doubt existing in the committee as to the propriety of further encroaching in this way on the appropriation placed at our disposal, and to the lateness of the season, the experiment was abandoned.

In December last permission was obtained from your honorable body to employ a competent hydraulic engineer. Acting on this authority, the committee corresponded with Mr. Wm. E. Morris, of Philadelphia, of whom they had evidence that he was competent and careful, and of long experience and high standing in his profession. The long interruption of mail communication last winter prevented the speedy conclusion of an arrangement with him.

Meanwhile, about the middle of April, it was deemed advisable by the Mayor and the members of the Fire and Water Committee to re-organize and enlarge the committee of citizens. Upon such reorganization, the joint committee consisted of the Mayor, Messrs. Coggeshall and Caruthers of the Common Council, (who acted until the change in committee after the June election) and Messrs. W. S. Ladd, C. H. Lewis, H. Thielsen, S. G. Reed and P. C. Schuyler.

This joint committee held its first meeting on the 23d of April, and after agreeing upon a plan of action it was decided to telegraph to Mr. Morris to come out here at once. He arrived on the 25th of May and at once, with characteristic energy, entered upon the duty before him, first receiving instructions from the committee to examine and inform himself, and the committee, upon every feature and matter of a water supply for the city. After visiting the principal cities in the East, visited several cities where the Holly works were in operation, and informed himself fully about them. He gives the committee great pleasure to say here, that the ability, zeal, energy and thoroughness manifested by Mr. Morris in the performance of the duty assigned to him, fully realize his previous reputation, and justify our hearty recommendation, and give us reason to congratulate the city on having the good fortune to obtain the use of such able services. He is a man of high character, being a man of strict integrity, of great ability, well founded and extensive knowledge, and of cool, careful, sound judgment. The conclusions set out in the report of his work, which is herewith submitted, should, therefore, have all the force and weight which the opinion of the author of the above work entitled it to bear.

Of the sources and plans which have been under consideration at different times, he considers his report "too much to have been considered worthy to be presented." It will be seen that he demonstrates the impracticability of bringing in any water by natural flow, and that the best supply of water would be within the city limits. The expenditure must be a pumping one, and that such a system must be either that of the Holly system, or the Holly system with the addition of artesian wells before distribution or directly into the distributing pipes on the Holly plan. He also recommends that we are confined to two sources of supply, viz: the Willamette river and the Stephens' springs. He also recommends that of the subject leads him to a recommendation that the water of Stephens' springs should be used, and that, under no contingencies, it should be distributed on the Holly plan or system.

The reasons are not prepared, neither do they think it advisable or desirable, that they should add to such a comprehensive review of the subject of water supply any expression of their own opinion or recommendation as to which of the sources of supply or modes of distribution should be adopted. The question as to which water should be used, is to be considered mainly from a financial point of view as to whether the advantages of having pure spring water will compensate the disadvantage of its greater cost; while that as to which of the two systems of distributing it would be best to be open to further investigation and discussion in view of facts relating to one of them which have recently occurred.

The committee believe that they have fulfilled their duty of going into the different means of supplying the city with water, and if they have not precisely indicated what is the "best method" for such a supply, they have done that which will make the solution of that question easy, and determinable mainly by considerations of cost.

It is hoped that every one will admit that it is desirable for the city to own and control the water supplied to its inhabitants, if it can do so in a manner to give general satisfaction, and without incurring a debt which will be burdensome, and which the resources of the city will be found inadequate or comfortably carry; it will be interesting to notice the figures which Mr. Morris places before us as follows:

Cost of works, using Willamette River and reservoirs	$513,000
Cost of works, using the Holly system	406,000
Cost of works, using "Spring" Springs and reservoirs	555 000
Cost of works, using the Holly system	511,000

Either of these estimates may be for present purposes, he says, be reduced $100 000 by diminishing the amount of distribution pipe. The system of distribution throughout the city, as shown by the map accompanying his report, embraces the whole area from Sheridan street on the south, to 15th street on the north, back as far as 12th st., making a total of 27½ miles of pipe from 4 to 12 inches in diameter, which, with the necessary fire hydrants, 300 in number, is estimated to cost $[illegible]. With any mode of getting or distributing the water this is a part of the system and is by far the most costly part of the expense, but as the water would be brought entirely to the door of nearly every house in the city, its use would become almost universal, and if [illegible] of an quantity, and [illegible] quality, and furnished at a reasonable price, it would be used to an extent that is now never thought of. Consequently the revenue would be large from the very completion of the works, and it would therefore be best to have a very complete system of distribution pipes.

Either of the above plans will require the expenditure of a large sum of money, but it is the opinion of the committee, based upon some knowledge of the revenue of the present Water Company experience of the past and present, and the future growth of the city, that the system of water-works, costing, if necessary, $800 000 or even would not be a burden too great to be assumed. It is quite within the bounds of moderate calculation, that the net income obtained from a reasonable and satisfactory scale of prices for water would in five years from the completion of the works, pay the interest on a debt of that magnitude, while the deficit of interest to be met by taxation during that period would be a heavy and would be a constantly diminishing, burden. We are, therefore fully of the opinion that the city need not, and should not hesitate or longer defer to enter upon a work which, more than anything else at this time, will add to its attractiveness both for residents and those contemplating a residence here, and is necessary to the health and comfort of its inhabitants.

The powers now vested in the city being insufficient for the erection of a suitable system of water works and the subsequent management, it will be necessary to obtain new and greater powers from the Legislature. As the success, and proper management of any system of works, together with the ability to negotiate a loan for their construction will depend almost entirely upon the thoughtful care with which the provisions of the Legislative act are originated and framed, the committee has given that subject a great deal of consideration. They submit herewith the draft of a bill which they hope your honorable body will carefully consider and transmit to the Legislature with an earnest request that it be made a law. The bill reflects the views of the Committee and those of a number of prominent citizens and tax payers who have been consulted on it and who have assisted by their suggestions in developing it into its form in which it is submitted. It is believed that in its provisions the city may obtain a credit as well as establishment in the safest and most economical way possible, and, upon completion have it managed by the best, surest and safest methods. The bill has been drafted by a gentleman of eminent legal ability thoroughly conversant with our State Constitution laws and the City Charter, and it may safely be presumed to be in harmony with them and with the best principles of law equity and the public welfare.

In view of the fact that before proceeding to erect a complete system of water works the city should consider that there is a large amount of private capital invested here in that kind of property and that it would be just and honorable to give the parties interested an opportunity of disposing thereof to the city if their works should be of such a character as to admit of their being used in connection with a more complete and extensive system, the committee direct Mr. Morris to make an examination of the Water Company's property and report its value both isolated and in connection with a larger system. His remarks and estimates upon which must or will be found in their proper place in his report. The committee believe that it will be strictly just and fair good policy for the city to pay just as much for the property as it will be worth in connection with the system it has in view and we have no reason to doubt that when the city obtains the authority to take action in the matter a mutually just and fair arrangement can be made between the City and Company.

An analysis of the water is under consideration by the chemical professional friends to whom it has been referred for that purpose. Dr. J. R. Smith the state assayer, Dr. Loewenberg, U. S. Army, who made a careful analysis of the water of the Willamette river at Portland, and Professor Silliman, of Yale College, who made an analysis of the water of the Willamette river at Oregon City. Arrangements are being made with the owners of the springs and with the Stephens' directly Springs giving the city the option of purchasing them. It has been thought that it would be desirable to provide in the legislative act for a way by which the springs and the rights connected with them may become possessed by the city, in case inducements to obtaining them by purchase should arise.

NATIONAL REPUBLICAN PLATFORM

ADOPTED BY THE REPUBLICAN PARTY, IN CONVENTION AT PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 6, 1872.

The Republican Party of the United States assembled in National Convention in the city of Philadelphia on the 5th and 6th days of June 1872 again declares its faith in, appeals to its history, and announces its position upon the questions before the country:

1. During the seven years of its ascendancy it has accepted with grand courage the solemn duties of the time, has suppressed a gigantic rebellion, emancipated four millions of slaves, decreed the equal citizenship of all and established universal suffrage. Exhibiting unparalleled practicality, it constantly paralleled no man for political offenses and has warmly welcomed all who proved their loyalty by obeying the laws and dealing justly with their neighbors. It has listed a new policy toward the Indians; the Pacific Railroad and similar vast enterprises have been generously aided and successfully conducted to completion, the public lands have been freely given to actual settlers; immigration has been protected and encouraged, and a full acknowledgment of the rights of naturalized citizens secured from European powers. In the form of National currency it has provided for the National credit, and sustained it under the most extraordinary burdens. It has negotiated new bonds at lower rates of interest. The revenues have been carefully collected and honestly applied. Despite the annual large reductions from the rate of taxation, the public debt has been reduced during U. S. Grant's Presidency at the rate of $100,000,000 per year. A great financial crisis has been averted, and peace and plenty prevail throughout the land. Menacing foreign difficulties have been peacefully and honorably compromised, and the honor and power of the Nation kept in a high position throughout the world. This glorious record of the past is the party's best pledge for the future, and we believe that the people will not entrust the Government to any party or combination of men, composed of those who chiefly have resisted every step in this beneficial progress.

2. Complete liberty and exact equality in the enjoyment of all civil political and public rights should be established and effectually maintained throughout the Union by efficient and appropriate State and Federal legislation. Neither law nor its administration should admit of any discrimination in respect to citizens by reason of race, creed, color, or previous condition of servitude.

3. The recent amendments to the National Constitution should be cordially sustained because they are right not merely tolerated because they are law and should be carried out according to their spirit by appropriate legislation the enforcement of which can be safely trusted only to the party that secured the amendments.

4. The National Government seeks to maintain an honorable peace with all nations protecting its citizens everywhere and sympathizing with all people who strive for greater liberty.

5. Any system of civil service under which the appointments of the Government are considered rewards for mere party zeal, is fatally demoralizing and we therefore favor reform of the system by a law which shall abolish the evils of patronage and make honesty efficiency and fidelity the essential qualifications for public position, without practically creating a lifetenure of office.

6. We are opposed to further grants of public lands to corporations and monopolists, and demand that the National domain be set apart for free settlement by the people.

7. The annual revenue after paying current debts should furnish a moderate balance for the reduction of the principal of the public debt and except so much as may be derived from a tax on tobacco and liquors, be raised by duties on importations which should be adjusted to aid in securing remunerative wages to laborers and to promote the industries and growth and prosperity of the whole country.

8. We hold in undying honor the soldiers and sailors who saved the Union. Their pensions are a sacred debt of the nation and the widows and orphans of those who died for the country are entitled to the care of a generous and gratified people. We favor such additional legislation as will extend the bounty of the Government to all our soldiers and sailors who were honorably discharged and who in the time of duty became disabled without regard to length of service or the cause of such discharge.

9. The doctrine of Great Britain and other European powers concerning allegiance once a subject always a subject having at last through the efforts of the Republican party been abandoned and the American idea of the right of an individual to transfer his allegiance having been accepted by European nations it is the duty of our Government to protect by all just and proper means adopted citizens against the assumption at home and claims by their former Government and we regard as continued and careful encouragement and protection to voluntary emigration.

10. The duties now or hereafter imposed on the importation of foreign goods should be discriminated in favor of those articles which are the product of American labor as far as possible and the burden of taxation should be equalized and reduced as rapidly as the requirements of the public service will permit.

11. Among the questions which press for attention is that which concerns the relations of capital and labor, and the Republican party recognizes the duty of such legislation so far as to secure a full protection and just reward for the labor which creates capital that the largest opportunities and a fair share of the mutual profits of those two great servants of civilization.

12. We hold that Congress and the President have only fulfilled an imperative duty in their measures for the suppression of the Ku Klux and treason-like organizations in certain lately rebellious regions and for the protection of the ballot; and therefore they are entitled to the thanks of the nation.

13. We denounce the repudiation of public debts in any form or disguise as a national crime. We will not attempt to pride the reduction of the principal of that debt and of the rates of interest upon it which has been effected, but we expect that our credit at home and abroad will be perfected by a speedy resumption of specie payments.

14. The Republican party is mindful of the obligations due to the brave soldiers and sailors who preserved the Union by their valor and patriotism and to the widows and orphans of those who died that the nation might live, and its institutions endure. The earnest gratitude of the American people has been shown in many ways, the most honorable of which is the pensioning of our disabled soldiers and sailors, and it is the duty of the Government to see that the bounty thus generously bestowed is not wasted by fraud nor squandered by incompetency.

15. The Republican party proposes to respect in letter and spirit the laws and constitutional obligations of the States reserved to the people to themselves as carefully as the powers delegated by them to the State and Territorial governments. It disapproves of asserting constitutional laws for the purpose of removing evils by the interference with rights not surrendered by the people to either the State or National Government.

16. It is the duty of the General Government to adopt such measures as will tend to encourage American commerce and ship building.

17. We believe that the modest patriotism the great purpose, sound judgment practical wisdom, incorruptible integrity and illustrious services of U. S. Grant have commended him to the heart of the American people and with him at our head we start to-day on a new march to victory.
